Who is Mont Surfaces

Mont Surfaces connects people with distinctive natural stone and engineered materials sourced from leading quarries and manufacturing facilities worldwide. Through international sourcing and careful selection, we curate collections that bring character, timeless beauty and authenticity to the built environment.

Across eight Midwest locations, our indoor galleries allow homeowners and industry professionals to experience slabs at their true scale. While Mont does not fabricate, we serve as a trusted resource—supporting residential and commercial projects from concept through completion.

“We promise to deliver curated collections with uncompromising quality, guided by integrity and dedicated to providing a customer experience as exemplary as the products we offer.”

“Color sets the mood, style tells the story — together, they turn a surface into a statement.”

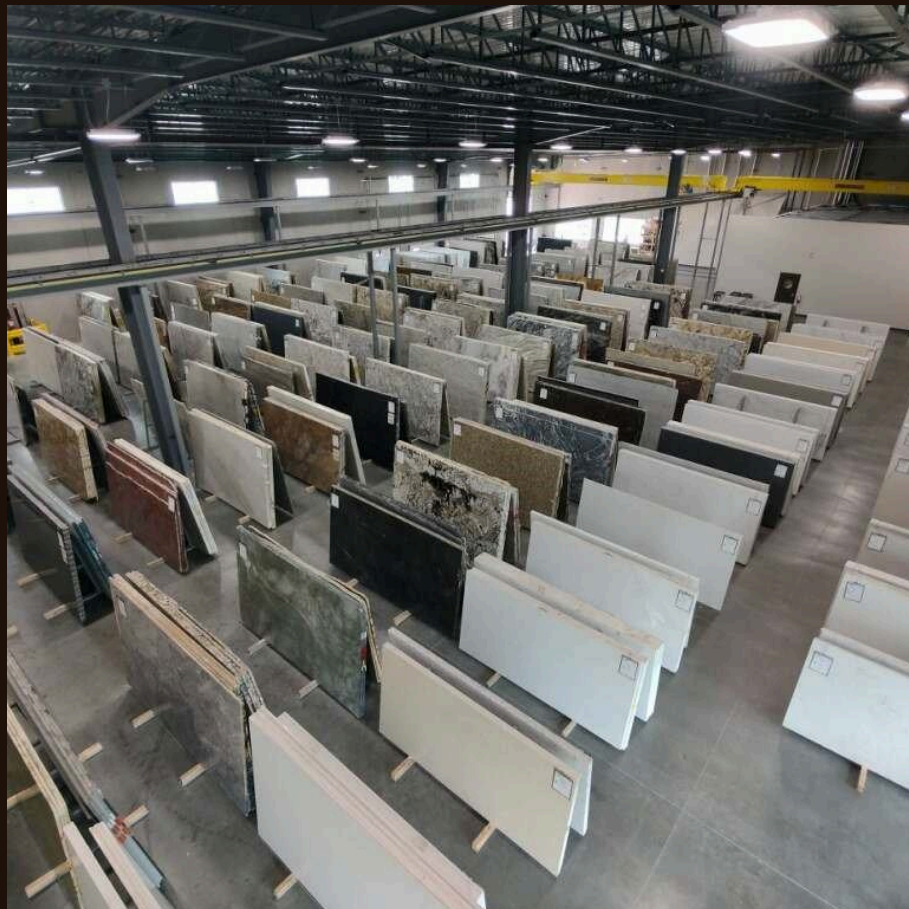

Our History

Mont Surfaces was established in 1988 by Dinesh Bafna with a vision to make natural stone more accessible. Through careful selection, product expansion and steady growth, he built the company one block, one team member and one division at a time.

Today, Mont operates divisions throughout the Midwest and is recognized for quality, integrity, innovation and service.

01

The Who

Who We Are

Mont Surfaces is a family-owned wholesale supplier of natural stone and engineered materials, serving clients across eight Midwest divisions with surfaces that contribute lasting beauty and architectural character.

02

The How

How We Work

Our collections begin with thoughtful global sourcing and selection. Once in our galleries, clients experience full slabs and panels at their true scale while our team provides guidance throughout the selection process.

03

The Why

Why We Do It

It inspires us to connect people with stunning surfaces while providing expertise that helps translate design vision into refined architectural environments.

Our Portfolio

Mont Surfaces offers a broad portfolio of architectural surfaces—including natural stone, engineered quartz, and porcelain—sourced to support a wide range of building types. With a diverse selection of surface varieties, colors and patterns, our collections provide architects, designers, builders and homeowners with versatile materials that bring depth, durability and visual character to finished spaces.

Our Commercial Commitment

Mont works closely with the professionals who bring projects to life—supplying thoughtfully selected natural and engineered stone, cut-to-size capabilities, and practical support from early concept through installation. While Mont does not fabricate, we collaborate with architects, designers, developers, contractors, and fabricators to help projects move forward efficiently through dependable supply, responsive coordination, and experienced guidance.

Our dedicated commercial services team supports cut-to-size services by reviewing drawings, performing takeoffs, and coordinating overseas prefabrication with direct jobsite delivery for local installation—an approach particularly effective for repetitive applications such as multifamily projects where value engineering and efficiency are essential.

Mont materials appear in a wide range of environments—including hospitality, residential communities, workplaces, retail settings, and cultural and sporting venues—bringing lasting character and performance to the built environment.

Our Philanthropy

Giving back is a commitment to the communities we serve.

At Mont, philanthropy is part of who we are. Through active efforts across our eight markets, we are dedicated to strengthening communities and making a meaningful difference.

Mont proudly partners with organizations that create real impact, including The Dragonfly Foundation in Cincinnati, which supports pediatric cancer patients and their families; Local Matters in Columbus, which improves community health through food education and access; and Riley Children's Foundation in Indianapolis, which advances world-class pediatric healthcare and research for children and families.

“Good corporate citizenship isn’t just about giving back — it’s about building stronger communities, fostering trust, and making a positive difference where it matters most.”
